To Whom It May Concern:

It is with great pleasure that I have the opportunity to write a letter of recommendation for Scott Mayer. I worked with Scott in the classroom at Glenbrook Off-Campus over the past year. Scott is engaging; he takes initiative with tasks that need to be completed inside and outside the classroom. Scott is the first to volunteer for tasks around the building from covering classrooms to driving the shuttle for school events. Scott is enthusiastic about working with students and teaching; his enthusiasm is contagious, and students enjoy working with Mr. Mayer and being in classes with him. Scott works throughout the district doing different extracurricular activities. Scott contributes to team meetings and helps proactively create plans to support student success. Scott documents and collects data for our students IEP's. He is invested in our program as well as the district. Scott is dependable, accountable, and respected by staff, students, and families.

Glenbrook's Off-Campus therapeutic program model is based on relationships. Scott builds authentic relationships with our students, which builds the trust needed for them to share and seek out Mr. Mayer when they feel dysregulated. Scott is consistent with behavior management, follow-through, and loops in the educational team. Scott is predictable and reliable. Scott excels at working with our students on the autism spectrum. He is patient and caring with our students and works with our student educational teams to address concerns regarding students. Scott's calm demeanor and strong communication skills are part of the success he has had here with students. Scott is able to jump into any situation that may present itself with a student's behavior or if teachers must leave the classroom, and he easily picks up the lesson in the middle of it. He models strong social-emotional intelligence skills and tries to help students socialize with peers who struggle in social situations. Scott makes all our students feel seen, heard, and cared about.

Scott is an asset to our program. He is looked at as a leader by his colleagues. Scott has a natural instinct to work with students with emotional and behavioral challenges while maintaining a positive attitude. Scott has experience, empathy, and an excellent work ethic. Your students would be lucky to have him.

Sincerely,
Mike Yacullo
